Working as a Craft Magazine Photographer and Editor

Robert K. Liu

Wednesday, August 24 at 6:30 p.m.

Trained as an ethnologist/ichthyologist, Robert K. Liu received his Ph.D. from the University of California at Los Angeles, where he worked on experimental gerontology in the Department of Pathology, School of Medicine.

In 1975 he left biomedical research after founding The Bead Journal, which changed its title in 1978 to Ornament, a journal of personal adornment.

Self-trained as a jeweler and photographer, he is co-editor of Ornament and has written extensively on ancient, ethnographic and contemporary jewelry and personal adornment since 1974. Ancient, ethnographic and contemporary glass of China and the silicates of the Zhou and Warring States period are among some of his particular research interests.

Over the past four decades he has lectured extensively in the U.S., as well as the U.K. and China, and given workshops on jewelry photography, making bamboo jewelry and has recently published The Photography of Personal Adornment.

He is also the author of Collectible Beads and has written over 700 articles and other publications, including on military technology and construction equipment. He maintains interests in the behavior of endangered desert fishes, writing his last scientific paper on this topic in 2013. All of his publications are illustrated with his own photography, both film and digital. Much of his imagery is shot by macro photography.

Liu does not have a personal website but you can see his work at www.ornamentmagazine.org.

"After receiving my Ph.D. at UCLA as an ethnologist specializing in the behavior of desert pupfishes, I worked at the School of Medicine as a gerontologist until I left in 1975 to start 'The Bead Journal' which soon changed its name to 'Ornament' to encompass all jewelry and historic/artist-made clothing. I had to teach myself how to photograph these areas of personal adornment, as well as previously learning how to shoot rapidly moving fish in the wild and in aquaria."

Reminder: Our member show, at the Encinitas Library, will be one month earlier than it usually is. Deadline to enter is September 1st. It's a great chance to have your work shown in public. There is no fee to enter - how easy is that?

As many of you know, I'm here in Montana for four months every summer. It's a photographer's dream around here, I've shot numerous photos of the mysterious morning fog, old barns, scenery and animals in Glacier Park. Until this summer, I haven't done many night shots. So this summer I decided it was time. After all, this is one of the few "dark areas" in the country. I've always been a bit timid about shooting at night. My camera seems like a stranger to me after dark. How does one shoot the Milky Way? How do I focus in the dark? What about bears? First, I put bear spray on my belt, then I get a couple of really good flashlights, find a friend who is willing to go out there, too, and then be prepared to stay up until 2:00 a.m. It has helped to expand my horizons as a photographer and I am thrilled to see the pictures that my camera lens sees if left open for 20-30 seconds. I highly recommend to each of you to try shooting something that you haven't done before. I promise it will make a better photographer out of you.

"Below The Knee"

Interpret "Below the Knee" any way you want to. Get a shot of something low. Put yourself low to shoot. Find a knee and shoot what is under it. I originally thought of this month's theme this way:

- ▶ Capture people in action with one or both feet off of the ground. Put yourself in a people traffic place. A street, shopping area, or event. If possible, locate a comfortable place you can watch multiple opportunities for a good shot. Be careful to minimize distracting intrusions or backgrounds. Wait to let things unfold for you.
- ▶ Pre-focus on an interesting area where you predict action.
- ▶ Use a normal prime lens or phone without zooming.
- ▶ Example composition: Foot about to touch down from a curb.
- ▶ What story or vision will you share?

Please submit up to 2 images. (Go to Members Login and submit your images there)

Sonja Longley - "How Did You Get That Shot"

"Every autumn I look forward to photographing the colorful fallen leaves of my Redbud tree. I shot these during mid-morning after the first rain while the sky was still overcast and the light askew, avoiding lens flair from the raindrops and giving them dimension. I used my 150mm macro lens at f/9.0, 1/100 second at ISO 320. I then converted to the LAB color space to increase contrast and bump the color a bit. I finished my editing with Nik's Viveza and Color Efex Pro." – Sonja Longley

Please welcome our newest NCPS member,
Doug Stiles from Rancho Santa Fe!

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT: Nancy Jennings, NCPS volunteer since 1999

Why Volunteer?

You're probably sitting there wondering what's in it for you. And I don't blame you. If you're like most people, you work full time, take care of kids, food shop, prepare meals, clean house, and do the laundry. You purchase new tires, have your teeth cleaned, take the dog to the vet, and buy a baby shower gift for your next door neighbor. Any free time you have is premium. Let's face it, you'd rather sleep. So why volunteer? Here's my story.

Many years ago, long before I retired, a photo friend told me about North County Photographic Society and I started attending meetings and going on photo shoots. Very soon after I joined, the treasurer stepped down and I thought I'd like to take on those duties. When I was told the leadership team meetings were held at night, and only once a month, I said, "Why not?" And that was the beginning.

Once you're involved, it gets hard to say no. In fact, you don't want to say no. Helping out with the member shows has always been fun and I've done it all from receiving the art to taking down the show. And, like Nancy Boyer (one of our volunteers) and her meatballs, I'd like to think my deviled eggs are famous at the receptions. I've done a member presentation. I've hosted leadership team meetings. But the biggest addition to my treasurer role has been taking on the duties of membership, made oh-so-easy by a wonderful database developed by another of our volunteers, Grant Hulbert.

So I'm in a great spot to know what's going on with North County Photographic Society, and I'd like to think I've been a part of shaping it's growth and direction over the years. Along with all of you, I've met many wonderful photographers and learned about the classes they're taking and the projects they're involved in. I've seen great images and learned a lot from presentations and member share. I hope I've helped to expand the membership of NCPS and interested other photographers in exhibiting in our member shows.

So what is in it for you??? I'm sure it's different for everyone. The chance to give something back to your club. The chance to work with other people. The chance to support the art of photography. I believe strongly that life has more meaning when you get involved. I invite you to become a volunteer with NCPS and grasp that meaning.

JUNE PHOTO SHOOT WRAP UP

by Dan Nougier

Ted Whirledge

On June 25, several of our fellow members were transported to Scotland for the day by way of the Vista Highland Games. While the hot weather wasn't particularly Scottish, all the events truly were. And the heat certainly didn't slow down the herding dogs or the athletic contestants. This annual event at Brengle Terrace Park in Vista always provides endless photographic opportunities. And when you need a rest from photographing, there is always cold beer and plenty of music to occupy your time.
